

SCOTT STREINER

CHAIR AND CEO, CANADIAN TRANSPORTATION AGENCY

Scott Streiner became Chair and CEO of the Canadian Transportation Agency on July 20, 2015. Since then, he has taken a series of steps to enhance the Agency's ability to respond to the needs of a rapidly evolving national transportation system, its customers, and the communities in which it operates.

Prior to joining the Agency, Scott had a 25-year career in the federal public service, including serving as Assistant Secretary to the Cabinet, Economic and Regional Development Policy and Assistant Deputy Minister, Policy with Transport Canada. As Assistant Secretary to the Cabinet, he played a key role in preparing advice to the Prime Minister on economic, environmental and trade matters, including in the areas of transportation and infrastructure.

As Assistant Deputy Minister, he led the development of policy options and advice on issues touching all modes of the national transportation system, and ran the Department's international, intergovernmental and data analysis functions. Scott has also led Canadian delegations abroad, including to India, China, and the International Labour Organization, and has served as the Government Member with NAV Canada. Scott received a bachelor's degree in East Asian Studies from the Hebrew University, a master's degree in International Relations from the Norman Paterson School of International Affairs, and a PhD in Political Science from Carleton University.
