Follow up of the 15th AIAG meeting (Final Conclusions and Recommendations)

Reference	Recommendations	Status on implementation	Comments
1	Investigation reports should contain as much detail as possible in respect to the findings, cause and contributory factors, conclusions and corrective actions. Reports should include specific detail of general terms such as airspace organization, ATC/Cockpit procedure and Human factors. It is strongly encouraged that the “5 why” principal is applied to all causes and contributory factors identified in order to discover the systemic causes and identify effective corrective, and more importantly, preventative mitigations	Implemented	The reports of the investigations are in accordance with the described procedure

2	States/ANSP's to consider implementing support structures, such as a consolidation period or specific rostering with experienced colleagues, in order to support newly validated controllers while they build experience and confidence in the time following their first validation on a particular airspace/control position	Implemented	On Job Training supervision has been implemented. Controllers' shifts according to the experience of the members
