Scope and objective

The objective of this factsheet is to share with the aviation community the latest aviation relevant information on the outbreak and its impact on aviation operations. As the situation evolves, the document will be updated, when required.

During periods of increased activity, the factsheet will be complemented with a daily update brief that summarises the developments during the previous 24 hours.

Event specific information

Description of event

On 31 December 2019 a cluster of pneumonia cases was reported in Wuhan, Hubei province of China. Since then, the number of cases has been steadily growing.

It seems that the situation in China is relaxing a bit, but the number of cases outside China is increasing significantly, also in Europe.

A novel corona virus (SARS-CoV-2) was discovered as causative agent.

WHO officially declared the COVID-19 outbreak as pandemic on March 11th.

Characteristics of the disease

Specifics of the disease:

|                              |                                 |
|------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Specific pathogen name:      | Novel Corona Virus (SARS-CoV-2) |
| Transmission type:           | Animal-human and human-human    |
| Reproduction Rate R0 (ECDC): | 2.2 (mean value)                |
| Case fatality rate (WHO):    | 3.4%                            |
| Incubation time (ECDC)       | 5.2 days (mean value)           |

Geographical information

The outbreak started in Wuhan, China and a limited but growing number of cases have been seen in multiple countries. The WHO and ECDC documents contain the latest details about the spreading of the disease.

EASA

The European Union Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) has issued on 13 March 2020 a safety directive to reduce the risk of spread of the novel coronavirus through flights to and from high risk areas. The safety directive mandates thorough disinfecting and cleaning of aircraft which operate from high-risk destinations after each flight. Exceptions can be made only when disinfectants with a longer-lasting effect are used – but even in those cases a thorough disinfection is mandated no later than 24 hours after departure from a high-risk airport.

The definition of high risk geographical areas will be based on all available information, taking into account World Health Organisation (WHO) situation report assessments, guidance issued by the European Centre for Disease Prevention and Control (ECDC) and regional public health assessments.

EASA further recommended that airlines operating on all routes step up the frequency of cleaning, disinfect as a preventative measure and ensure full disinfection of any aircraft which has carried a passenger who was suspected or confirmed as being infected with COVID-19. Airport operators should similarly disinfect terminals regularly. Additional guidance to be published shortly will recommend that in cases where flights are not full, passengers should be spaced throughout the cabin if possible. Wherever possible, passengers should also be provided with single-use disinfection wipes allowing them to additionally clean their seat area for personal reassurance.

Specific recommendations for cabin crew state that crew members who had direct contact with a confirmed case should be placed under 14-day quarantine. Other crew members on the same flight, or who came into contact with a suspect case, should be asked to monitor their own health and react quickly at the first signs of infection. These measures will help to slow the spread of the disease and will support business continuity for flight operations, by ensuring staff do not pass on the virus to colleagues.

The Safety Directive complements the Safety Information Bulletin (SIB) issued in January and revised twice in February for giving recommendations to national aviation authorities, airlines and airports. The SIB is available here: <https://ad.easa.europa.eu/ad/2020-02R2>

|  | Quarantine has been imposed for hospitals, medical staff and citizens who have had contacts with the infected by COVID-19 people without protective clothing and masks. Bulgarian DG CAA and aviation community are following the instructions of the WHO, ECDC, ICAO, EASA, IATA, ACI and EUROCONTROL and are responsible for forwarding them to the various stakeholders and personnel in the aviation community. The DG CAA regularly sends updated safety information bulletins and prevention recommendations, and controls the implementation of the measures by the whole aviation community in the country. A link to the relevant information from International and European organizations has been published on: https://www.caa.bg/ Targeted working groups at the airports are regularly briefed on the guidance and recommendations in the documents of WHO, ECDC / CDC /, ICAO, CAPSCA, EASA, IATA, MH and DG CAA. Regional health inspectors provide permanent entry screenings of arriving passengers and hold meetings with managers of all stakeholders at the airports. The current Contingency Operational Plans for the prevention of the import and local spread of diseases have been updated. Medical examinations and isolation rooms have been prepared near the arriving passenger areas. There is also a procedure in place for dealing with patients showing symptoms of acute respiratory disease. Passenger information measures have been implemented by the airport operator (display of instructions on the monitoring systems of terminals, distribution of flyers to inbound in terminals). All international airports provide passenger locator forms. The frequency of airport and aircraft cleaning and disinfection is increased. Airport personnel had been provided with protective equipment - face masks, gloves and clothing. |  |

| 13-02-2020 | to measure body temperature of all arriving passengers directly from China as of 31 January started with the first flight of Air China at 18:50L. All Chinese arrival flights are allocated to the same enclosed gate, where temperature measures are taking place by laser devices and also by heat cameras. In the same area, the high temperature detected passengers are questioned with Chinese translation available. I case of threat, a nearby separation room is equipped for quarantine until National Medical Service takes patient away to be hospitalized. Most routes to China (to Shanghai, Xi'an, Chengdu and Chongqing) have been suspended from early February until end of March. Out of 13 weekly connection only 3 remain for the time being (Air China to Beijing). This last remaining route will also pause for one week in February. Number of passengers on the operated flights to and from China has significantly decreased since the outbreak. Also, major EU carriers have already reduced or suspended their operations fully or partially to China, which impacts on passengers to/from BUD connection elsewhere. Cargo business is also affected. One is missing belly freight on the suspended China connections. Tow are the full freighters as they report difficulties to get the aircraft uploaded with export goods from China to Europe and therefore the flights without having export on the way back are becoming really expensive. For this reason, one of our freighter company partner postponed increasing their frequency to/from Shanghai from 6 to 7 weekly for yet uncertain time. BUD is disinfecting aircrafts in case airline requests, 24/7 duty is available for such service, masks and hand sanitizers are available for staff unlimitedly, epidemic information bulletins are placed throughout the terminals. Also, leaflets are made and being |  |

| Montenegro02-03-2020  | Montenegro has taken precautionary measures to protect people against the spread of Corona virus in our territory. The measures are focused on travellers arriving by air from the affected countries to the international airports Podgorica and Tivat, especially due to the fact that Montenegro doesn't have direct flights to/from China. Institute for Public Health, in case of need, implements a health monitoring procedure for travellers coming from China/Wuhan. These passengers, upon learning from the Police about their itinerary, and forwarded to the airport ambulance service, which takes further care. This implies that passengers do not leave the airport, yet they are registered there. Yesterday afternoon two (2) passengers received Health surveillance document with instructions on the need to contact a health care services. Further information can be found at: https://www.ijzcg.me/me/savjeti/advices-for-international-travelers-coming-from-areas-affected-with-2019-ncov Based on the order 8-501/20-129/76 issued by the Ministry of Health, Montenegro, all flights to/from Bologna and Milano (Italy) are, from 29th of February 2020 temporary suspended. | In accordance with the actual situation, Montenegro will implement adequate and anticipated measures. As the member of CAPSCA, Montenegro follows agreed instruction on how to proceed according to the situation on the ground. |
| Netherlands11-03-2020 | Under the authority of the Ministry of Health, Welfare and Sport and based on international advices a number of measures have been implemented for the Netherlands' aviation sector.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

| Slovenia17-03-2020 | Decision of the Government of the Republic of Slovenia to ban all international flights (PAX) including general aviation to land at any public airports in the Republic of Slovenia was adopted yesterday (16.3.2020). This ban is mandatory to all PAX flights (within EU and also to all third countries) but it is exempted for emergency flights, humanitarian flights, cargo/mail flights, ferry flights and medical flights. Any other exemptions could be approved by the Ministry for Infrastructure or the Ministry for Foreign Affairs. In this regard two NOTAMs were published yesterday evening (16.3.2020) with starting date 17.3.2020 midnight (local time).                                                                                       |  |

| United Kingdom14-02-2020 | Public Health England (PHE) is the UK organisation leading the formulation of national policy and guidance on containment of the COVID-19 in the UK. The UK aviation stakeholders use this guidance as the basis for to act and contribute to the national containment exercise, the latest advice and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |

This facilitates regular, dynamic and contemporary coordination to advise and synchronise on appropriate actions to be taken in the aviation environment and the address emerging issues raised by aviation stakeholders. The UK CAA has established an internal crisis management coordination team, which monitors information from a regulatory position on all aspects of UK aviation operations and is designed to escalate proportionally and in a timely manner if the threat level from the virus increases. At this time, containment through targeted testing and identification of persons who may have been in contact with suspected cases, along with travel advice from UK Government is the main approach being taken. To date, 9 cases of COVID-19 are identified with over 2,500 suspected cases tested, fortunately no deaths recorded due to COVID-19. |  |

Impact on air travel

The impact on air travel is increasing significantly. In addition to a strong reduction of passenger demand, countries are increasingly imposing travel limitations.

In general, these limitations are related to risk areas that are published by the WHO, but the US and Israel have established general measures.

Estimated impact of COVID-19, failures and health crisis on European flights in March 2020

- At the moment(beginning of Week 11) Network losing between 6-10% of flights per day.
- Big drop this Monday 9th (10%) expected to continue this week with a bigger drop next week.
- The big reduction next week is due to the notification period for EU261 expiring
- Some airlines concerned about maintaining airport slots.
- Expectation is of around 20% reduction of network traffic by the end of March compared to the same period last year.
- This is an estimate and is beginning to look conservative. It could significantly change due to the dynamic situation.

Austrian airlines: On average 15% of operation from 10th onwards on an increasing scale. (45 flights)

Swissair is cancelling 20% of operation from 8th March (60 flights)

KLM: No major cancellation programme but Chinese and Italian cancellations plus some US reductions are adding up to around 40 flights a day maximum. Decisions made on a weekly basis.

Lufthansa: Currently reducing the programme by around 30% (400-450 flights per day) this will continue until end of March at least.

Easyjet: From 19th approximately 12% of operation being cancelled (80 flights)

Ryanair: Currently cancelling around 100 flights per day. (5% of operation) All flights to and from Italy will be cancelled from Friday 13th March.

Between 5-10% of their operation will be cancelled by end of March.

Turkish: Currently cancelling around 150 flights a day (12%). Expected to continue and increase possibly to over 500.

SAS: Traffic to/from northern Italy is cancelled until 02 April, and traffic to/from PEK, PVG and HKG until start May.

There will be more cancellations throughout the European network, but I don't have the details yet. Also reduction in traffic depends on the 80/20 airport slot waiver rule (possible exemptions).

Currently cancelling around 50 flights a day: based on the above this is expected to continue until the end of March and likely to increase if the situation deteriorates as expected.

EACCC

The second EACCC teleconference was held. The EACCC members and SFPs were updated on the current status.

Network Manager

Despite the fact that a number of European airlines have cancelled or about to cancel direct flights to and from China there is no significant impact on European Network at the moment.

The ban of flight to and from China in Italy has no significant impact either.

The Network status will remain at "Pre-Alert".

Airlines are reducing their flight schedules significantly especially, but not only to and from the Corona affected areas.

The AOCCC is collecting information about the flight reductions of airlines. This information is available at the following link:

Possible scenarios

| Scenario                                                            | Network impact     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------|
| Airlines suspend flight to and from affected region                 | Limited impact     |
| Airports apply entry/exit screening on flights from affected region | No impact reported |
| Airports apply entry/exit screening on all flights                  | N/A                |
| State authorities require quarantine of suspected persons           | No impact reported |
| Passenger locator tracking is activated                             | No impact reported |

Actions in the EACCC framework

It was decided that NM will continue to collect and distribute relevant information by factsheet and e-mail.

Due to the increasing number of COVID-19 cases in Europe the EACCC chairpersons have decided to convene a teleconference on Wednesday March 4th, 10:00 UTC.

The focus of the teleconference is to determine the impact of the changing situation on the European aviation network.

Appendix - Responses from Member States

Since adding the questionnaire responses to the factsheet increases the document size too much, the responses will be accessible via the OneSky Teams site at the link published in the accompanying e-mail.
