

ICAO Action

ICAO is currently developing provisions for a future flight plan system that will replace the existing one. This future FF-ICE system will provide flight and flow information within a dynamic, robust, collaborative environment with the potential to address the coordination of detailed flight-specific capabilities, in support of many new emerging operational requirements.

In this regard, the recommendation from the AAIU will be forwarded to the panel of experts developing the provisions for the future flight plan system for review and recommendation in the context of future amendment to ICAO provisions.
