

Safety Recommendation

The Australian Transport Safety Bureau recommends that as a priority the International Civil Aviation Organisation develop an international standard for the marking of aircraft equipped with rocket-assisted recovery parachute systems to ensure that they fully alert persons to the hazards and the danger areas on the aircraft.