Safety Recommendation

The Australian Transport Safety Bureau recommends that the International Civil Aviation Organization develop standards for the classification and format of service information issued by aircraft, engine, and component manufacturers.