After being guided by radar control, flight DTA 620 then performed an ILS-DME final approach on runway 08 R (08 right) and landed at night after eight hours of flight.

At the end of the landing roll on runway 08 R, 2,700 meters long, the crew, finding it impossible to stop the aircraft before the approach ramp located at the end of the runway, deviated to the left. The aircraft overran the runway and came to rest, stuck in a grassy field about thirty meters from the runway.
