8. Passport et visas

Visas are required for foreigners to enter and stay in the Brazilian territory for any period. They are granted by the Brazilian Consular Offices abroad.

Citizens of Mercosur member states do not need a visa to enter and stay in Brazil; they only need a valid passport or national identity document. Visitor visas may be granted for different purposes, such as tourism, business, transit, and artistic or sports activities. Visitors on this type of visa are allowed to stay for a maximum of ninety days. To find out if you need a visa to travel to Brazil, check the following link: <https://www.gov.br/mre/pt-br/assuntos/portal-consular/QGRVsimplesing12JAN24.pdf>

Brazil's visa policy is based on the principle of reciprocity. This means that most countries that require visas from Brazilian citizens to enter their territories will also need a visa to travel to Brazil. Under current Brazilian immigration law (Law 13,445 of 2017), the Brazilian authorities may only grant visa exemption on a reciprocal basis and through mutual understanding on the matter. Brazil currently has bilateral agreements on visa waivers with approximately 90 countries.

- Where to apply for a visa:

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Brazil, commonly known as Itamaraty, serves as the central authority responsible for visa issuance. This process is facilitated through Brazil's diplomatic missions, including Embassies, Consulates General, Consulates, and Vice-Consulates located worldwide.

Foreign nationals intending to apply for a visa to travel to Brazil are encouraged to contact Brazilian Representations abroad for comprehensive information on the application procedure.
