PROFILE

I was raised and trained in the interior of the country, where I learned the importance of overtaking the limits to make my dreams come true. I was inspired by different viewpoints and I learned that no direction is favorable to that person not really sure where he is heading for... and almost no universe is so wide and has so many gates as the universe of creativity, connecting us to the passion of what we love doing.

My most recurring question since I was a child was...how could I contribute to humanity? This premise motivated my personal and professional career for over 20 years. I explore the ways and cardinal points to amaze myself.
