ICAO TRIP: Building Trust in Travel Document Security

Holistic Traveller Identification Management

Canada's Digital Interchange: Background

In the era of increasing online service delivery, validating identity is more important than ever...

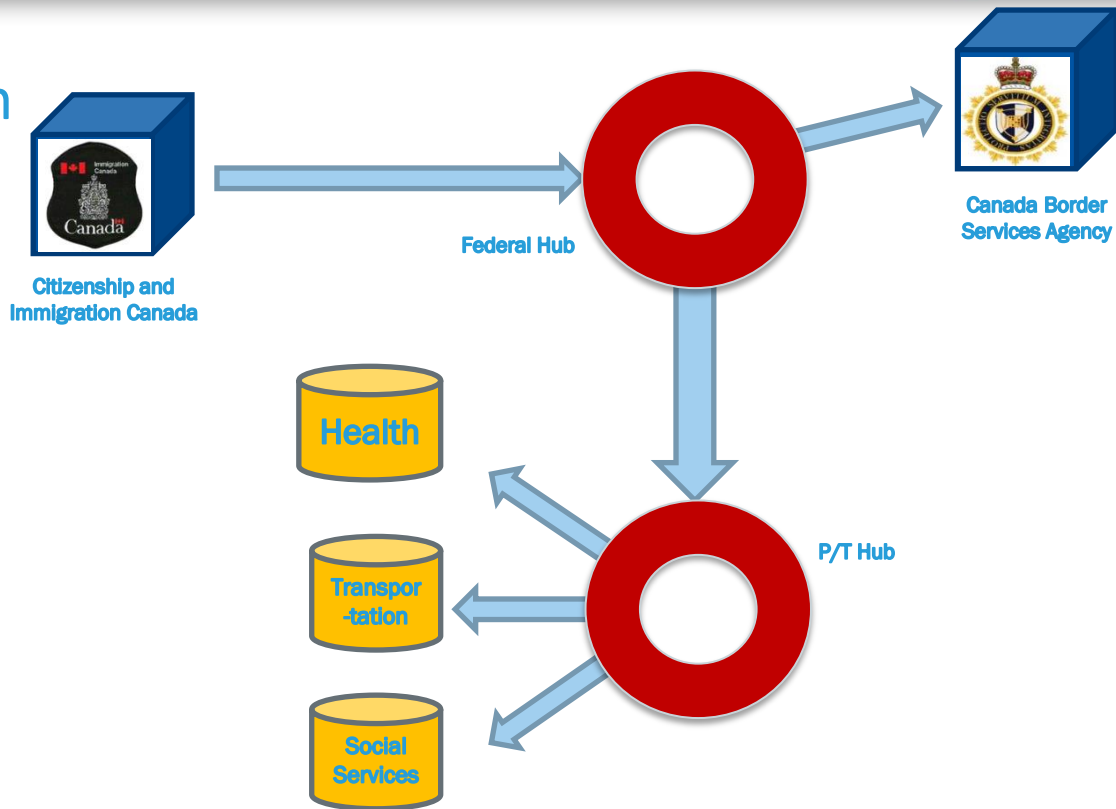

- Programs at all levels of government need to know that a person's identity information is valid so that they can determine if the person is eligible for a benefit or service
- Without the ability to validate the information on an identity document, services become more vulnerable to identity fraud
- Near real-time validation is required for online service delivery

...and while Canada's approach has been uneven, there are successes to build on

- Some federal departments receive birth and death notifications from P/Ts in near real time through systems such as the National Routing System; we need to build on these successes
 - For example: clients can now complete birth registration, apply for a health card, apply for a Social Insurance Number (SIN) and apply for the Canada Child Benefit through one single process

Wrap-up and Conclusions

- ICAO has made huge progress in passport security (the core):
 - Security features
 - ePassports & PKD
 - TRIP Strategy
- Growing awareness of the need work around the edges
- Evidence of Identity (EoI) focuses on source documents and integrity of identification processes
- Datasharing and interagency/international cooperation can obtain great results
